PCHS Class of 2015 set to graduate on Sunday

It's been a long journey. Just ask any of the nearly 170 Powell County High School seniors.

That journey, at least the one that goes through the high school, comes to an end on Sunday.

That is when they will move their tassel from right to left and become graduates of PCHS. The ceremony is set to begin at 2 p.m. and a huge crowd is expected.

The guest speaker for this year's graduation is Dr. Brent Morris. Morris is a graduate of Powell County High School and last spoke to the graduating class in 2010. He is a well known and respected orthopedic surgeon.

The ceremony will have several performances by students who are graduating. Valedictorian Taylor Johnson will also be speaking.

The Class of 2015 invites their family, friends and neighbors, and the whole community, to come out and celebrate with them.

The AmVets Cemetery has a new look thanks to a $2,500 donation from ATS Construction and the hard work of several members. New flag poles line the drive and along the fence, including flags for each branch of service. They were on full display this past weekend during the Memorial Day holiday.

Pizza delivery driver robbed at gunpoint

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

It was only a matter of time before big city criminal acts enter the minds of small town thieves.

Powell County deputies are investigating an alleged armed robbery of a pizza delivery driver in Clay City last Saturday night. According to reports a man wearing a hoodie robbed the driver at gun point.

Deputy Marty Tipton received the call that a delivery driver for Papa John's Pizza in Stanton had been robbed in the "Bottoms" area of Clay City. The driver told Tipton that between 10 and 10:30 p.m. he was in the area around Third Street and Fifth Avenue when he saw a person wearing a hoodie. Due to that person's size and build, he thought it was a friend and stopped to say hello.

However, the driver reported that it was a person he did not know and the man pulled out a gun. The perpetrator then took the driver's wallet, reportedly taking between $40 and $50 of the driver's personal money.

Deputy Tipton began to search the area, but did not find anyone matching that description. In a subsequent interview later Saturday night the driver, who has not been named by the Powell County Sheriff's Office due to the ongoing investigation, he stated that he did not get a good look at the robber's face. Some of the details are still a little sketchy.

Tipton reported that a manager at Papa John's believes that due to this incident there will be some policy changes, including delivery routes.

Deputies are still investigating the incident and other local agencies will also assist in trying to find the person alleged to have committed the crime. If you have any information about the robbery please call the Powell County Sheriff's Office at 663-2226 or the Powell Dispatch Non-Emergency Number at 663-4116.

A new bronze plaque was unveiled at the SFC John D. Morton Memorial at the Stanton City Park last Sunday. The plaque is the start of a four phase project to build a memorial not just for Morton, but for everyone from Powell County who has served or given the ultimate sacrifice.

New plaque unveiled at John D. Morton Memorial

What began as an Eagle Scout project for Trevor Faw in 2011, has blossomed into what this memorial and picnic area is today. It consists of six octagon picnic tables built by Faw and his dad, a sign donated by the city, and now a new plaque that was purchased with money donated by numerous sources.

Faw is not finished yet.

The plaque honoring Powell County native, Sgt. First Class John D. Morton, and his ultimate sacrifice was unveiled Sunday, May 24. This plaque was only phase one in a four phase expansion plan for the memorial.

Friends, family, and supporters packed the bleachers and chairs at the memorial picnic area and garden in the Stanton City Park. Under the shade of trees surrounded by freshly placed mulch and flowers stood a small stone base and a white cloth covering the anticipated plaque.

This plaque was co-designed and approved by Trevor Faw, 18, UK student and Executive Director of the John D. Morton Memorial Foundation. It was sculpted by Raymond Graf in Louisville.

The plaque was created to honor SFC John D. Morton, 31, who was killed while on patrol in Shah Wali Kot, Afghanistan, on Dec. 15, 2005.

The ceremony began with the folding of the American flag by the American Legion Post 305. During the folding, former army veteran and paratrooper, Richard Fain, educated the audience on what each of the 13 folds means as each one was happening.

"There are some traditions and ways of doing things that have a deep meaning," Fain said. "In the future you'll see the flag folded and now you may know why."

The next guest speaker, Joe Bowen, read the last letter John Morton wrote to his mom and dad. In the letter Morton thanked his parents for a book and some candy they sent him. He told them Merry Christmas and showed hope for success in their next mission.

Bowen then described how Morton lost his life during a mission, trying to fix an antenna ensuring that communication would not be lost.

"We can never forget what John David Morton, and all those others before and after, did for us and our great nation." Bowen said.

Trevor Faw and Jerome Morton, father of John Morton, share a hug at the ceremony last Sunday. Faw has been instrumental in bringing the memorial upgrades into reality

After Bowen speaking, the small white cloth that had been concealing the plaque was removed. The crowd rose to their feet for the new memorial containing some of the names of those who donated, a picture of John D. Morton, and a description about Morton.

"This may be a small token of our gratitude for John David Morton and his family," Faw said. "Though it is a small one and it is a small step, in comparison to his sacrifice, it is a step none the less."

David Hale, 74th District State Representative, took the podium next to discuss his thoughts on Memorial Day traditions, and how Morton, along with many others, gave their lives for millions of people they will never know.

"We'll never be able to repay them, how can we," Hale said. "There is no greater love, than for a person to give their life for their friends."

Kentucky Court of Appeals Justice, Judge Sarah Combs, also shared her feelings on Memorial Day and the John D. Morton memorial.

"Your loved one is not forgotten," Combs said. "He lives on in this memorial and he is being celebrated by association across this entire country, as we also celebrate the lives of other soldiers today."

The ceremony ended with a moment of silence for the death of another Powell County native who may not have served but was recently lost, Tyler Brewer. Following the ceremony was food, drinks, and friendship.

With phase one being completed, the other phases are now in motion. Phase two is to rip out the existing concrete and replace it with an octagon slab to make the memorial more easily accessible, and then adding a 30 foot flag pole.

Phase three entails five six foot tall granite walls representing each of the military branches. The walls will encompass brass name plates for veterans and fallen soldiers placed in their correct military branch. Each plate

It was one of those things you don't see everyday. Grace Fellowship Church of God of Prophecy on East College Avenue in Stanton had a steeple placed on the church last Wednesday. The 24 foot steeple came from Roanoke, Alabama

The annual Farm Field Safety Day was held at the Knox-Ware Farm in Clay City last Friday. Students from all three elementary schools attended. They were taught about farm safety, given tours of fire trucks, ambulances and even a medical helicopter. They even learned about eating right. The event has been a tradition that never grows old.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT THIS WEEK'S ISSUE

In this week's Clay City Times you will find the annual Grad Tab, as we call it. It is a keepsake tab that has the photos of all the Class of 2015 (at least the ones who provided a photo). You will note that most of the students photos are in color. However, some sent us black and white pictures and those photos will be on a page together, because not every page in the special issue is a color page. It will help make the pages look better and help the printer with any issues that may arise due to the differences. We hope you understand.

Second thing to inform you about is the special pictures of those seniors who have decided to go to college or sign with the military. We did not have room on one page for all of them. Some photos will look larger, but trust me when I tell you the resolution and column width is the same. More people in a photos, stretched across a room means a smaller over all photo as we have to make sure everyone gets in. A single or a photo with very few people will look larger. The photos are in (collegiate) alphabetical order when possible on Pages A7 and B7. We hope you enjoy this week's times and the attempt we have made to honor those students that we could. - James Cook, Editor military branch. Each plate will be personalized for the individual service member.

Phase four will be the completion of the memorial with a life size statue of a battle cross and kneeling soldier in the middle of the octagon.

For the rest of the phases the cost is about $200,000, any donations for the finishing of this project would be appreciated.

"This memorial project is a model, for something that we want to take state wide," Faw said. "We want to break it down and say this individual made this sacrifice."

Faw wants to take this model to surrounding areas, who cannot afford to memorialize their soldiers. Not all the surrounding areas memorials would look just like this one.

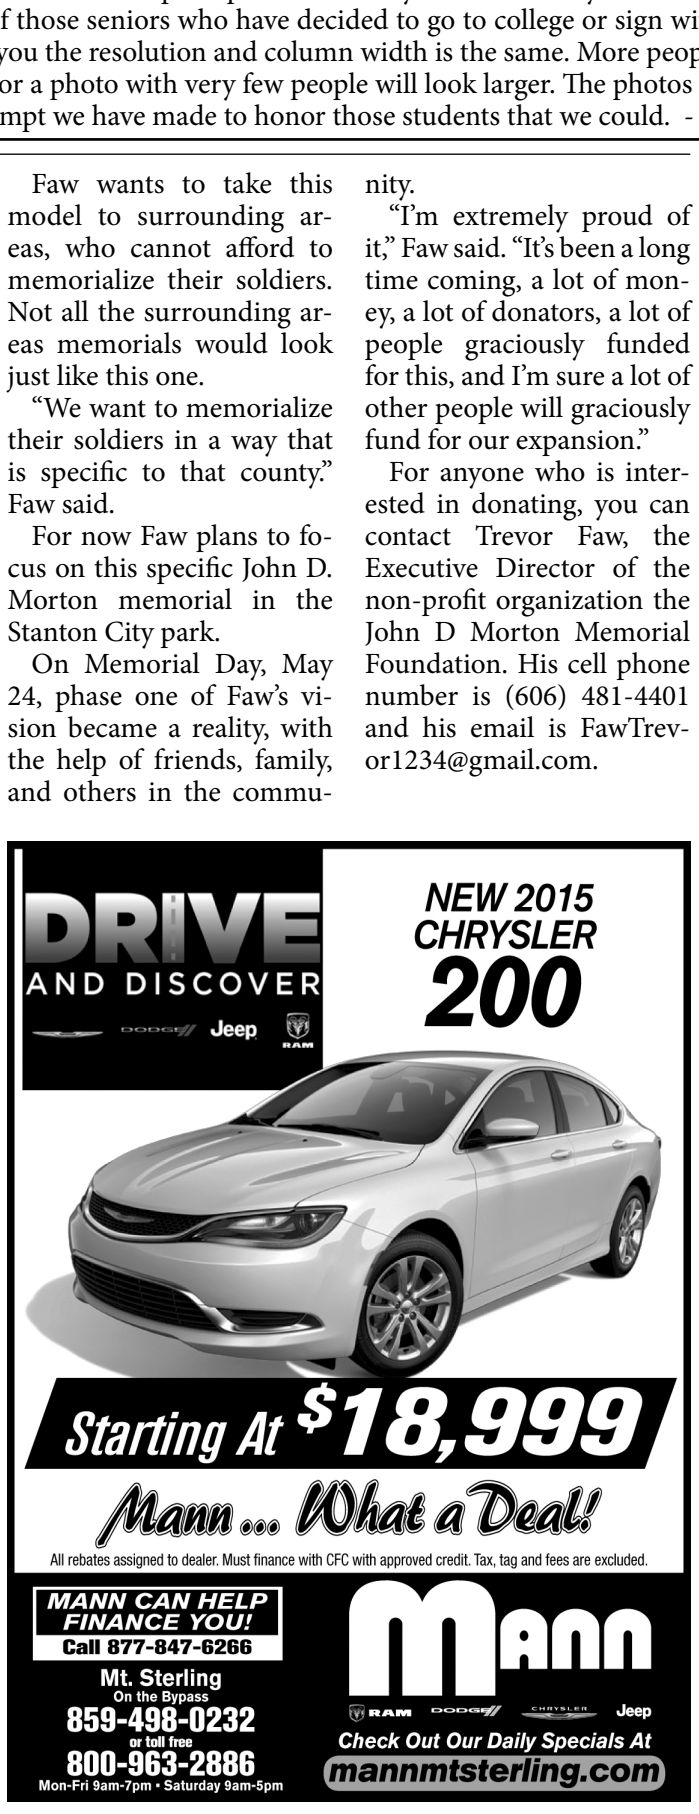

"We want to memorialize their soldiers in a way that is specific to that county." Faw said.

For now Faw plans to focus on this specific John D. Morton memorial in the Stanton City park.

On Memorial Day, May 24, phase one of Faw's vision became a reality, with the help of friends, family, and others in the community.

"I'm extremely proud of it," Faw said. "It's been a long time coming, a lot of money, a lot of donators, a lot of people graciously funded for this, and I'm sure a lot of other people will graciously fund for our expansion."

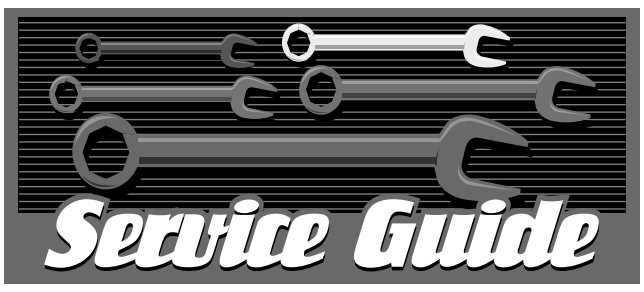

For anyone who is interested in donating, you can contact Trevor Faw, the Executive Director of the non-profit organization the John D Morton Memorial Foundation. His cell phone number is (606) 481-4401 and his email is FawTrevor1234@gmail.com.

I'm just saying . . . Good luck seniors and an open letter to a special one

It has been quite a while since I have written a column. With lots of things to cover and not a lot of time, I often find I do not have time to write like I used to do. But this week I wanted to write a little something to the seniors, the Class of 2015.

As the school year comes to a close, as the memories of things you did in second grade, like climbing under the bathroom stall doors and locking them for fun, as all that passes by and it begins to sink in, know that this community has watched you grow. We have been there to help you, support you, sometimes chastise you, but mostly to love you and help you move on.

You see, you are, like every graduating class is, the future of our home town.

We love it when we see you succeed. We cry with you when you hit hard times and as a community we stand together to help our own when needed.

With that said, I want to wish all of you the best of luck in whatever you choose to do. If you go to college, study hard and make it. If your going into the military, we support you completely and know your hometown will always support our troops, and thanks for choosing to help us by serving. If you enter the work force, America was made by those who put their nose to the grind stone, so to speak, and worked hard. Thanks for keeping us gong and I hope you get to work doing something you love. I respect your choice to do what you choose to do. So do it well.

But I wanted to take some time here to write a letter to one of those graduating this weekend. You see, I've watched her grow up closely and as she ends this chapter of her life and gets ready to "Go on an Adventure" I wanted her to know how much it means to see her get ready to spread her wings and fly.

So please bear with me, I may not get this chance again.

"Dear Whitney,

The time is finally here! You are graduating from the same school and same halls I walked down so many years ago. I know this may sound a little corny, but you and I have literally walked the same walk and stood in the same places in life, at least in that school.

I was not sure how this day would hit me. After all, I'm supposed to be able, your mother and I that is, to get you ready to grow and take on the world. But for a just a little while longer, a part of me wants you to remain my little girl.

You remember her, that pig tailed, blue-eyed beauty who could make a mean old man like me smile and melt with just a grin from you. The cutie that learned to walk while I worked at a jail, who learned to ride a bike with a little help from me. The little girl who was fearless when it came to jumping into pools, scaring daddy (because he can't swim), but loving every minute of sitting in the pool and watching you play with all you had.

Do you remember the little girl who would run to daddy when a storm came up just to hear him sing "'Till the Storm Passes Over" or how about the munchkin who would sneak out of bed to eat ice cream with me when I came home at 1 am. Then we'd act like we didn't do it when mommy saw the dishes the next morning.

Oh how proud I was to see you start Kindergarten at Bowen Elementary. Your mom, Aunt Heather and I taking you to school that first day (and I believe I've taken you the first day every year until now). After a little crying, mom and Heather left to dry their eyes, you were right as rain and ready to go, not a tear anywhere.

As the years went by and the good grades kept coming, I guess my chest swelled with pride. (At least that was the excuse I used for needing bigger shirts, lol.) Even more so when you started playing softball and got pretty good at it. I could see talent in you I never had and I could see that you were going to achieve things on and off the field I never would.

Man am I so proud of that.

Of course, the teen years came along and so did those things called boys. But you've been level headed and stayed the course of keeping grades up and playing ball whether they liked it or not. I have loved, despised and endured these teen years, but I wouldn't have it any other way.

It was during this time span I almost lost you. I almost lost you and mom at birth, but you were a fighter (like mom) and I got to hold you and I knew the world was right. But just before your freshman year a rattlesnake tried to change that. I thought maybe God had other plans for you, but He answered prayers and I got another chance to be your dad and see you grow some more.

We won't discuss the wreck, which scared me to death, but once again God was watching over you. Don't ever forget He has given you three chances, don't waste those. He has a purpose for you.

I have been very proud to watch you play a game you love, excel at it and become a leader without having to run your mouth to do so. I've always taught you actions speak louder than words. I think your teammates would agree.

You may not have reached all the goals you had, but you are getting a chance to play at the next level and once again I am so proud of you.

I am proud you chose a Christian based college to attend despite having other choices, because, as you told the president "I want to stay close to my faith."

As you walk down that aisle and onto that stage to get your diploma, I know I will try to be stoic, because dad's are supposed to be strong. After all I am seeing that all the work your mom and I have done to get you here, all the hard work you did to achieve this, is paying off. But while others see a beautiful young woman, student, softball player, a person who loves kids, puts other first (and you have shown these qualities time and time again), as the crowd sees that, I will see that little toddler in a red dress, sitting with her giant Pooh Bear. I will see the little girl who wanted to wear daddy's hat just because. I will see the little girl who would sing the "Battle of New Orleans" with me (loved the way you said Bloody British).

I know this is not the end of the book, just one chapter. I pray I have done a good enough job, the job God gave me in raising you, that the rest of the book comes out the way it should.

I love you Whitney, with all my heart, count all the stars, times infinity, times two, divided by no one. We have said that to each other as soon as you were able to remember it.

Wilmore is not far away, but far enough that you will begin your next chapter. I'll always be here, at least in your heart (and probably you'll hear "51" if you think it is something you shouldn't do, lol).

The chapter is closing now. Stand tall, know you did well and move on to the next one. This may not mean much to anyone else, but you're Whitney Cook and God has plans for you. Now go and make us all proud in whatever you do, because after all you know I will be proud of you always!

Love Dad."

Sorry if that is a little sappy for some of you. But I learned a long time ago say it when you can, write it down when you can, because there are no guarantees in this life of a tomorrow. But I guarantee one thing, my little girl, and now all of you, know exactly how proud and how much I love her. And that means more to me than anything else on this earth.

I'm just saying . . .

GOP presidential caucus: Is what's good for Rand Paul also good for the party?

By H.B. ELKINS
Guest Columnist

With the exception of my college years, when I voted by absentee ballot, my Election Day routine has been the same: Go to a location not too far from home, slip into a secluded corner and cast a secret ballot for the candidate of my choice.

But thanks to U.S. Sen. Rand Paul's desire for a political safety net, that routine may be changing next year, and not necessarily for the better.

Paul, Kentucky's first-term junior senator who was elected in 2010, recently announced his worst-kept-secret-in-America intent to run for president next year. He also wants to run for re-election to his Senate seat.

If he lived in a different state, that might not be a problem. In Wisconsin, U.S. Rep. Paul Ryan was re-elected to the House of Representatives even as he was losing his vice presidential race as Mitt Romney's running mate in 2012. In Connecticut, retired U.S. Sen. Joe Lieberman was re-elected despite also being on the ballot as Al Gore's running mate in 2000. And in Delaware, Joe Biden was lucky enough to win both the vice presidency and re-election as a senator in 2008. Guess which position he resigned?

Kentucky isn't one of those states, though, and state law prohibits a candidate from running for more than one office on the same ballot. That poses a problem for Paul, who wants to pursue his presidential ambitions while at the same time being able to fall back on his Senate seat should he lose that race.

Our senior senator, Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, also has an interest in how this all unfolds. Although Paul's seat is generally considered safe for Republicans, the GOP faces a challenge in keeping its newfound majority in 2016. The Senate seats up for grabs are in states said to be favorable to Democrats. The loss of a red state senator would be devastating, especially in McConnell's home state.

Paul has explored multiple avenues for dealing with the situation. Originally, he sought to have Kentucky's law changed to allow a run for president and a lower office simultaneously. A bill filed in the General Assembly last year by a supporter went nowhere in the Democratic-controlled House, and no attempt was made this year to push similar legislation. He also mentioned the possibility of filing a lawsuit to overturn the law, but that didn't happen either.

The solution that has emerged, however, would on its face offer a solution to Paul's quandary. Plans are in the works now for Kentucky Republicans to choose their presidential preference in a one-time-only caucus sometime in late winter or early spring, and then have primary candidates for other races on the ballot in the traditional May election. That would initially allow Paul to be a candidate for both offices without running afoul of the Kentucky Revised Statutes.

There are a lot of questions about how caucuses would operate, and who would participate.

Would they be held on a precinct or other local level, allowing voters to continue to cast their ballots close to home? Or would they take place by district or region, requiring participants to travel a significant distance to participate?

Voter turnout is abysmally low in most cases as it is. The Kentucky GOP gubernatorial race was one of the most exciting in memory, yet Tuesday's turnout was microscopic. If voters are forced to drive an hour or more to attend a caucus, who other than die-hard supporters of certain candidates will take part? I know I'd hate to give up the better part of a day to have to drive to London, Hazard, Somerset, Pikeville or other location in my congressional district to participate.

And how will the process take place? Will votes be cast by secret ballot? Or will attendees be forced to make a public vote and risk retribution if they don't support the right candidate? Since this process is being developed for Paul's benefit, those of us who aren't inclined to support Paul may be reluctant to publicly vote for Ted Cruz or any of a number of other candidates (announced or unannounced) who are better choices. There may also be the perception that the fix is in for Paul, also depressing participation.

What happens if Paul happens to win the GOP presidential nomination and also wins his senatorial primary? He still faces the you-can't-run-for-two-offices-at-the-same-time problem, and there's no guarantee that a lawsuit filed after the presidential nominee is chosen would be resolved by the time the November ballots are set. It's unknown if Paul could drop out of the Senate race in favor of a Republican replacement. And with the national Electoral College map as hostile to Republicans as it is, there's no way the GOP could forfeit Kentucky's eight votes by taking Paul off the Bluegrass ballot.

That's probably all a moot point anyway. Paul won't be the Republican presidential nominee. The establishment usually gets its way, and it's hostile to him. Paul also may face a backlash from voters who aren't happy with his have-your-cake-and-eat-it-too approach. Some are already pointing to Florida Sen. Marco Rubio, who faces a similar situation but has decided to run only for president and forego any re-election bid.

Still, the caucus idea raises a lot of questions. Will it be good for Rand Paul? Definitely. Will it be good for Kentucky Republicans? That remains to be seen.

Fiscal court's next budget may look at a couple positions

By
JAMES ANDERSON,
Powell County Judge Executive

On May 12 the Powell County Fiscal Court had our regularly scheduled meeting with all members being present and on time for roll call.

This month we had a couple of citizens come to speak during the public comment section. Both those who spoke had some concerns with garbage being dumped on the back side of the reservoir and with traffic they felt was drug related in that same area.

I assured them we could help them with any garbage along roadway with our litter abatement crew and that we had even considered trying to place some waste cans in some of the areas they had concerns with.

In relation to the drug traffic they had concerns with; they were advised that issue would have to be handled by law enforcement. The court and I both thanked them for coming and making us aware of their concerns.

After the public comment we moved onto old business where the court was made aware of the updates in regards to emergency funding for the infrastructure failures we had in regards to the weather events. We were one of the counties included in the presidential declaration and this makes us eligible for federal monies to help address these issues.

Also, under old business I asked the magistrates if they had any further comment on the proposed gas line. Last month I had encouraged each of them to reach out to their constituents to see what their thoughts were on this issue. In following up to see if any of our citizens had any comments none of the court had anything.

Moving into the new business portion of the meeting, library board appointments were the first thing addressed. In making these two appointments I went with Powell County Library Board and State Librarian/Commissioner recommendations of Danny Allen and Anne Cecil Noss.

Following this was the potential purchase of a tractor for the road department. During the emergency events this past winter we had leased a tractor to assist in snow removal. The court voted to go ahead and purchase the tractor. Any money that had been paid in lease portion went toward purchase price.

Next, I made the court aware that I would like to look into having someone conduct a phone audit. Several times over the last several years we've questioned phone bills and what we're paying for, but, are pretty much at the mercy of the phone companies with the knowledge we have of these systems. I think an independent resource will be the most effect and efficient way to determine if we are receiving the best service and being billed for the appropriate items.

Coming up next was discussion of an excavator for the road department. A few months ago the court had approved the purchase of a used unit but upon final inspection of the piece of equipment, there were several issues that caused us to decide against that machine. After some discussion the court has decided to look at potentially leasing a unit for the short term to see if it meets the need prior to actual purchase.

The next two items dealt with office staff. The first of these two was a request by the County Attorney to see if there was the possibility to have someone part time to help cover his office work load. The second of these items was trying to determine a salary for payroll/financial officer. Both of these items will be addressed and answered as we move toward the completion of the 2015-2016 budget.

The next item on the agenda was the 1st reading of the 2015-2016 budget. Being that there are still several items that weren't ironed completely out, we opted to postpone 1st reading until a later meeting. We are still well ahead of budget deadlines so we have plenty of time to finish up.

The business portion of the meeting was finished up with a closed session. This closed session was to discuss some future legal matters. We came back into to open session and no action was taken in regards to what was discussed in closed session.

Closing out the meeting was making the court aware that Powell's Valley Water District had forwarded a copy of their audit for our review.

I'd like to once again thank each of you for staying engaged with what's going with your local government.

President turns his back on middle class with new methane emissions regulations

BY DREW JOHNSON
Guest Columnist

In his State of the Union, President Barack Obama called on Congress to practice "middle-class economics," by "unleashing new jobs," "helping working families" and "building the most competitive economy anywhere."

It seems odd, then, that the president spent the days leading up to the speech ordering the Environmental Protection Agency to unleash harsh and unnecessary new regulations on energy companies that will kill jobs, slap families with higher gas and electricity costs, and ravage the American economy.

The new rules will force the oil and natural gas industry to cut methane emissions by up to 45 percent by 2025. While that may sound like a fine way to give Mother Nature a break, the reality is there's no evidence that the regulations will do anything to benefit the environment. In fact, the regulations are a clear example of a solution looking for a problem.

Methane emissions are decreasing dramatically without governmental meddling. Emissions from natural gas systems have fallen 40 percent since 2006, according to the administration's own estimates. Since 2007, domestic natural gas production has jumped by 26 percent.

One reason for the decline in methane emissions are voluntary efforts by the energy industry to improve technologies used in oil and natural gas production. According to the EPA's own data, for example, methane emissions resulting from fracking are down 73 percent.

A second reason methane emissions have fallen is the industry's renewed commitment to capture and reuse the methane it produces -- the gas is an important resource used in fuel and chemical manufacturing. Methane's value makes Mr. Obama's new regulations unnecessary. "It would be like issuing regulations forcing ice cream makers to spill less ice cream," remarked Thomas Pyle, the president of the Institute for Energy Research.

To make a bad idea even worse, the president's new diktat will dramatically limit the safe and responsible hydraulic fracturing and horizontal drilling practices that have led to historically low oil prices and ushered in a new era of American energy independence. The White House admits it hasn't even bothered to calculate the cost or economic ramifications of the new regulations.

Clearly, however, the result will be fewer jobs; higher electricity, home heating, and gasoline prices; and a renewed reliance on foreign oil from hostile countries.

So why is President Obama imposing such foolish, unnecessary and illogical emissions rules?

The regulations appear to be just another despicable attack on energy companies by the president in order to please his environmental extremist supporters.

Obama is already engaged in an irresponsible war on coal that is expected to wipe out 600,000 domestic jobs and cost Americans more than $150 billion in higher electricity bills.

Now it appears that the president has his sights set on bullying oil and natural gas producers, too -- even though doing so has negligible value for the environment.

While Obama may be scoring points with his environmentalist buddies by beating up on America's energy producers, he's falling out of favor with the millions of Americans who are getting the shaft from the administration's economically nonsensical policies that wreck family budgets, destroy jobs and sink businesses.

If President Obama truly is serious about "middle-class economics," his first order of business should be to give middle-class Americans a break by scrapping his harmful methane emissions rule.

New Trust For Life and Military Academy license plates are coming

Kentucky residents now have two new license plate options for their vehicles. Released April 1, specialty plates for the Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks' Trust For Life and the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation, featuring an image of the smallmouth bass, are available for purchase.

Beyond the state's standard "Unbridled Spirit" and "In God We Trust" license plates, Kentucky offers more than 100 specialty plates, most of which promote a cause and enable nonprofit organizations to receive donations from the public. Those purchasing a specialty plate can donate up to $10 to the organization it represents. The money is passed directly to the organization.

"Our specialty plate program has paved the way for many groups to get their mission out in front of the traveling public," said Rodney Kuhl, commissioner of the Department of Vehicle Regulation in the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC). "In addition, the specialty plates allow Kentucky drivers a chance to donate to a favorite cause and show their support for an organization."

Kentucky offers dozens of plates promoting everything from military service and love of nature to coal and horses. Any owner of a non-commercial motor vehicle under 10,000 pounds required to be registered for use on Kentucky highways can purchase a specialty plate at the county clerk's office in their county of residence. Costs vary. A complete list of plates and their prices is available at http://mvl.ky.gov.

The smallmouth bass and Trust For Life specialty plates offer the public two more options for supporting nonprofit organizations. The cost of purchase for either plate is $34. In addition, those purchasing the plates can donate up to $10 to the circuit clerks' Trust For Life fund or the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation, accordingly.

"Kentucky's first-ever Donate Life special license plate encourages motorists to put the mission, 'Organ, Eye and Tissue Donation Saves Lives,' into perspective. This statement illustrates the grandeur of what a simple 'YES' at the driver's license office has the ability to do," said Shelley Heavrin Snyder, executive director for Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks' Trust For Life. "Similarly, it gives passionate individuals the opportunity to publicly show their support for this worthy cause. If more people know about and support the lifesaving mission of donation, more lives will be saved. We are so grateful for the opportunity to share this message with everyone on the road."

"Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation's smallmouth bass license plate commemorates the world record smallmouth caught in Kentucky waters by David L. Hayes in 1955 from Dale Hollow Lake," said Chad Miles, the foundation's executive director. "Donations to the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation fund youth fishing projects in the Commonwealth. Kentucky is blessed with so many fishing opportunities throughout the state, with 123 lakes exceeding 50 acres in size. Kentucky has 220,832 acres of fishing water with 4,125 miles of shoreline."

Before a specialty license plate goes into production, the state requires organizations to submit an application outlining the mission of the organization and the way in which donations from the plate will be used. Once the application and plate design are approved, the organization is required to gather the signatures of 900 people who pay $25 each in advance for a plate. Once the plates are available, those 900 people receive a $25 credit when they order the plate at a county clerk's office. For an additional $25, a specialty plate can be personalized.

For more information on Trust For Life, visit www.trustforlife.org/kentucky. For more information on Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation, visit www.kentuckywildlife.com/kentucky.

Upcoming plates

On the way are plates honoring the various U.S. military academies – with release expected by June 1 for passenger vehicles and motorcycles. Plates will be available for the U.S. Naval Academy, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, U.S. Military Academy at West Point and U.S Air Force Academy.

Eligibility is restricted to academy graduates and current students. If unsure of eligibility, contact Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs at (502) 564-9203 or 1-800-572-6245.

Military academy plates will have a mandatory contribution fee of $5. All donations go to the Veterans Trust Fund. For more information, visit http://veterans.ky.gov/.

In addition, a Gold Star Sibling plate will also be released on June 1.

With all military plates, the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs will provide a letter of qualification to the customer who will then provide the letter to the clerk.

McConnell: Blue Alert Act signed into law

U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell released a statement today regarding the President signing the Rafael Ramos and Wenjian Liu National Blue Alert Act of 2015 into law.

Senator McConnell co-sponsored the bill establishing a national "Blue Alert" system within the U.S. Department of Justice to help catch those who kill, harm, or threaten law enforcement officers. The law creates a nationwide system similar to what the Amber Alert system does for abducted children.

Should law enforcement officers be killed, seriously injured, threatened, or go missing while in the line of duty, this system would be utilized to widely disseminate information to help identify and apprehend potential suspects.

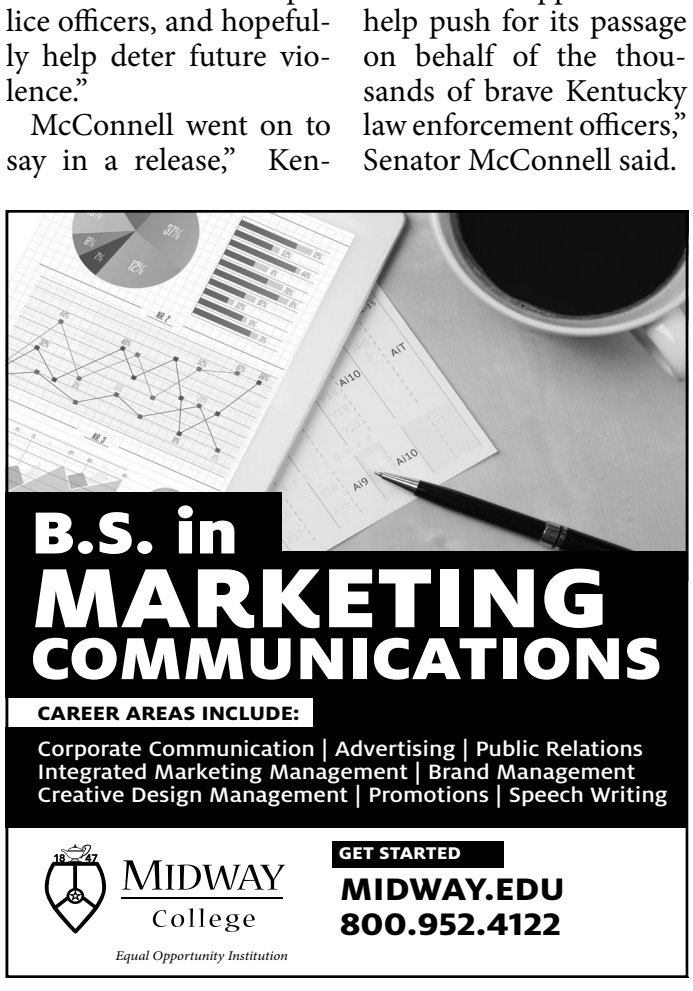

"I was proud to cosponsor the Blue Alert Act and pleased the President signed it into law today. The Blue Alert will help bring to justice those who harm or threaten our police officers, and hopefully help deter future violence."

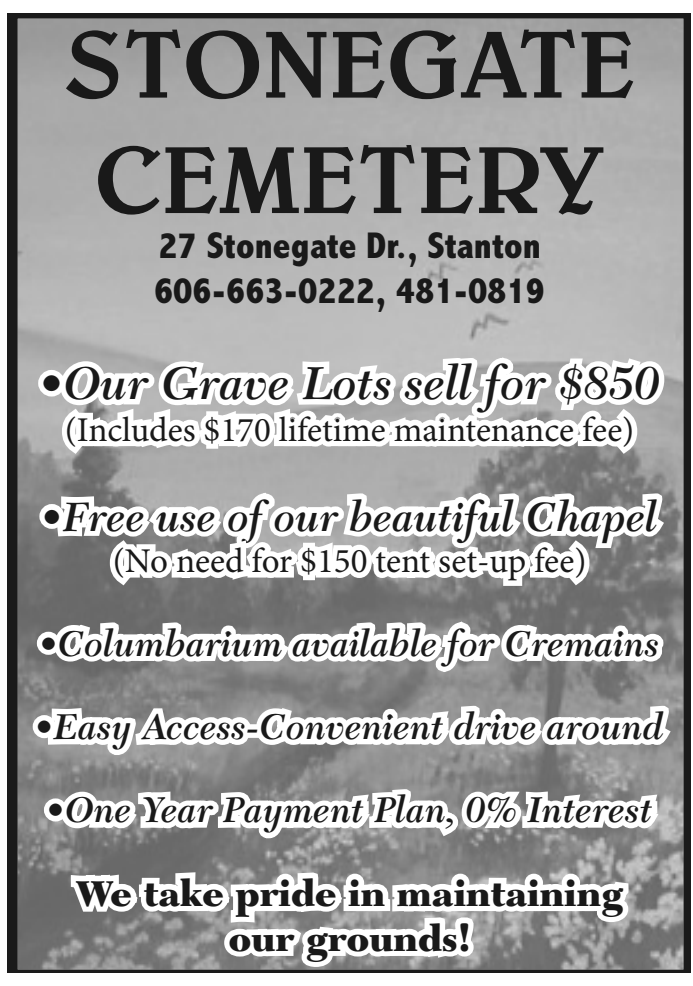

McConnell went on to say in a release," Kentucky law enforcement officers put their lives on the line every day to defend us and this law will help protect those who put their lives on the line for us every day. I was honored to support it and help push for its passage on behalf of the thousands of brave Kentucky law enforcement officers," Senator McConnell said.

2015 4-H Senior Salute

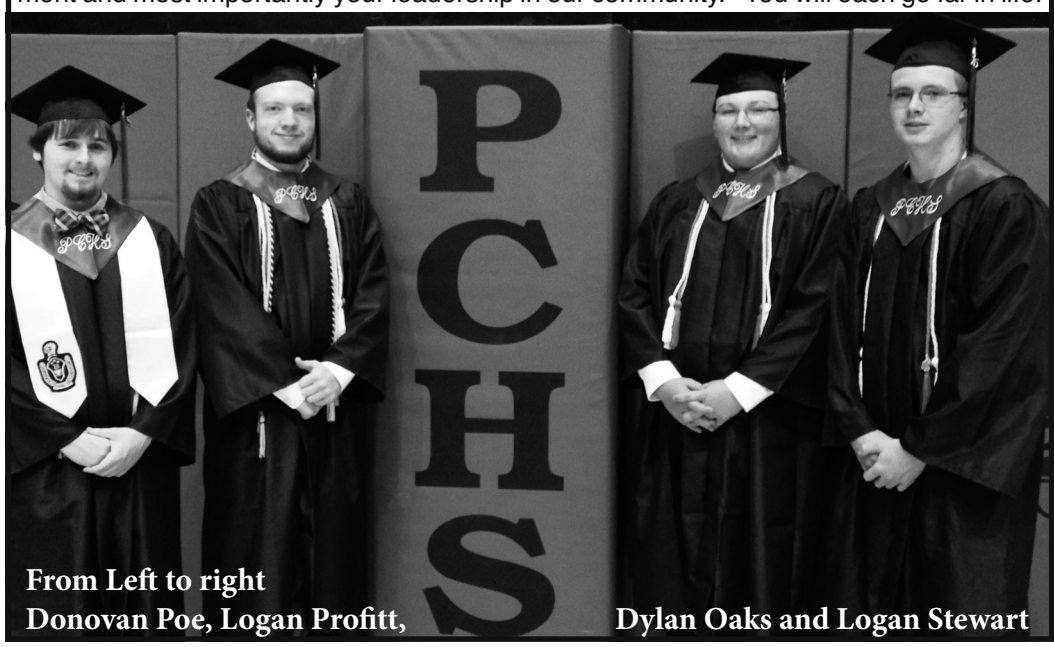

The Powell County 4-H Program is very blessed each year to have some amazing youth and teens participate and volunteer in our programs. This year has been no exception – these four (4) young gentleman have been a huge asset to the Powell County 4-H Program. Together they have accomplished more than 500 volunteer hours just during their senior year which equates to a more than $9,000 donation in volunteer service hours to the youth of Powell County. They have been instrumental in 4-H program planning as well facilitating and conducting a variety of projects and activities in their 4-H Teen Leadership roles. Dylan Oaks began volunteering and participating in 4-H later on in school and has been a huge asset to the teen club. He always has a smile on his face and has become a very dependable teen leader in the 4-H program. He is definitely one of the kindest person I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. Dylan plans to attend Morehead State University and eventually own his own business. Donovan Poe began his 4-H experience as a camper at summer camp. He attended camp each year and was chosen as a 4-H camp teen leader at age 15. At that point he also became interested in the 4-H teen club and participating in a variety of county, district and state leadership events and conferences. He began his 4-H experience on the more shy/quiet side but is now graduating as the crazy, go with the flow Donovan we all love. Donovan plans to go to college, get his PhD in Astrophysics and eventually be a professor. Logan Stewart began his 4-H experience as a very young child – age 3 – attending 4-H summer camp with his mom. Since that first summer at camp, he has been hooked on 4-H ever since. Over the years, he has participated in a vast variety of 4-H programs, events, conferences and experiences – there's very little he was not involved with at one point or another. He graduates as an active senior in not only the teen club but also as a state certified teen shooting sports coach for TRAP, as a mentor to the CCE robotics program and actively involved in District and State 4-H programs and conferences as well. Logan's "nothing is impossible" attitude has been a huge asset in the 4-H program. Logan's plans for the future are to get a good job, build his own house and have a happy life. Logan Profitt began his 4-H experience a one of the first members of our 4-H cloverbud program (for ages 5-8 years old) because he wanted to go to camp with his older sister. Camp and the 4-H cloverbud program kept him involved in 4-H through to his teen years when he became involved in the 4-H teen program. Logan has had a true dedication to taking his leadership roles seriously – "there was a time to play and a time to work". He is awesome at keeping teen meetings on task but also the first to come up with something fun to do once the agenda was over. Logan like many of these other teens has a special place in his heart for 4-H camp that I'm sure will stay with him forever. When everyone began to run on empty – Logan made his goal to "Get Far'd up" and build that enthusiasm back up. Logan will be joining the ARMY this summer and I'm thinking the teen club will be starting a new community service project during their meetings – letter to soldiers (at one very special one)! Again, all four of you have left a positive impact on the Powell County 4-H Program and lasting impression on me personally. I've never seen a group of teen leader blend so well together even at times of adversity (and we had plenty). Thank you for your participation, involvement and most importantly your leadership in our community. You will each go far in life.

Pirates capture 56th District championship

By GREG MCINTOSH
Times Sportswriter

The regular season ended with the Powell County Pirates baseball team having one of the best records in the 14th Region. Powell faced Lee County in the opening game of the 56th District Tournament last Tuesday. Powell had Jacob Hall on the mound and he was outstanding.

Hall shutout Lee as the Pirates cruised to an easy 14-0 win. Jordan Woosley and Chance Snowden both had three hits each in the five inning victory. Estill County defeated Owsley County in the second game, 21-1 to set up the district final.

Powell and Estill faced off in the 56th District Tournament final last Wednesday. Jordan Woosley led off the game with a double for the Pirates. Woosley later scored on a groundout by Cameron Conrad. Powell led 1-0.

Estill was able to score a single run off of Conrad in the bottom of the first to tie the score. Powell got an unearned run from Derrick Robinson in the second to retake the lead, 2-1. Estill failed to score in the second inning.

Dylan Morton led off the third with a double and Chance Snowden tripled. After a walk to Brad Smith, Snowden scored on a passed ball. Powell led 4-1 with Estill coming to bat in the third inning. Estill was again able to score a lone run to make the score 4-2 after three innings.

The Pirates had a huge inning in the fourth as they scored four runs. Mason Hatton walked, Morton doubled and Conrad singled. Snowden doubled and Smith singled in the inning. Estill failed to score and Powell led 8-1 after four innings.

Powell failed to score in the fifth and Estill added two runs to get the score to 8-4. Both teams failed to score in the sixth inning. The Pirates scored twice in the seventh. Smith was hit by a pitch. Zack Skidmore, Jake Whitt and Hatton all singled in the inning. Brady Salisbury, who came in to relieve Conrad, held Estill scoreless in the seventh. Powell won the championship over Estill, 10-4. Powell took home the title for the first time since 2011.

Powell's Jacob Hall, Jordan Woosley , Dylan Morton, Cameron Conrad and Chance Snowden were named to the All-tournament team.

Powell hosted the 14th Regional Tournament beginning on Memorial Day at the Stanton City Park. The Pirates faced Leslie County in the opening round on Monday and won. The Semifinals were scheduled for Tuesday. The Championship game was scheduled to be played on Wednesday.

Lady Pirates grab district runner-up

The Powell County Lady Pirates beat Lee County 14-2 in the district tournament first round, but fell hard to district foe Estill, 13-0 in the championship game. Makayla Rucker, Amber Branham, Katie Knox and Whitney Cook were named to the all-tournament team.

Both teams advanced to the 14th Region Tournament at Perry Central this week. Powell fell in the tournament opener to Jenkins, 11-8, to end the season with a 19-19 record.

Future Pirate Basketball Camp set for June 9-11

The Powell County Boys Basketball Program invites you to attend camp to be held on Tuesday, June 9 through Thursday, June 11, at the Powell County High School Gymnasium. We invite all boys who will be in grades (1-8) for the next school year to participate. The camp will run from 9 am – 12 pm daily. Our staff will include Head Coach Ryan Whitaker and coaches PCHS, PCMS, and current PCHS Pirate basketball players. We are excited about the opportunity to work with the youth of Powell and surrounding counties.

The individual attention that we devote to our young people at this camp will help them to improve as basketball players. We view it as an extension of our individual improvement drills that we do with our high school players during the course of a season. We want to extend these skill development sessions to the youth and allow them to take what they learn this week and continue to improve throughout the year.

Each camper will be matched into his age division and the fundamentals will be stressed. We will emphasize the importance of academics, good character, positive attitude, and love for the game. We hope you are able to attend and look forward to working with you. All campers can register on the first day of camp to participate. Registration will be held in the PCHS gym lobby from 8-8:45 am on Tuesday, June 9. The cost will be $50 per camper ($80 for two from the same household). We are excited that many of our current players who will help assist with this year's camp have also participated at the camp when they were younger. We look forward to having a great week. Come join in on the fun!

For a little girl who begins gymnastics at the age of three, signing to be a college cheerleader may seem like a big dream. For Chazney Crowe it is a dream that has come true.

Crowe tried out for and made the cheerleading team at Eastern Kentucky University two weekends ago. She signed with them last Wednesday. Her family, friends, Powell Coach Kayla Mays and EKU Coach Beth Bruner were on hand to take part in the signing.

Crowe began her dream by taking gymnastics under Terena Wallingford when she was three, At age four Wallingford advised she should go into cheerleading with an all-star team. For 15 years she has worked, sometimes as much as nine hours a day to get ready for her chance to cheer in college.

"I wanted to go to EKU because they have the best criminal justice program, it's close to home and I love their cheerleading program," Crowe said,

When she heard about the tryouts, the nine hour days were just a small price to pay.

"At the tryouts I was just a huge nervous ball of energy, mixed with some confidence and hope," Crowe said about her college tryout experience. "We tumbled on the hardwood, done the fight song and cheer, then some elite stunts, standing, tumbling and some running tumbling. I love it."

Of the 56 who attempted to make the team that day, 53 made it. Of those 41 will be on the all-girl squad, while 12 will be on the co-ed squad.

Crowe will not be alone at EKU. Her former high school cheerleading teammate, Taylor Everman, also made the squad. Everman was on the EKU team last year as well.

Crowe plans to try a double major, criminal justice and sociology. Her future plans, besides cheering the Colonels to victory and competing hopefully at the nationals championships, involve more school.

"I'd like to either go to UK to become a lawyer or a sociologist in the criminal behavior analysis area," Crowe says.

Seem like big dreams for some, but for Crowe, it's just another dream she's willing to make come true.

Tyler Brewer Memorial Alumni Game

The Powell County Pirates football alumni took on the Montgomery County alumni last Saturday evening in the Tyler Memorial Alumni Game. The game was dedicated to the honor of Brewer, who was killed in a motor vehicle accident on Jan. 24. Brewer was a football standout at Powell County, but was not able to compete in the alumni game last fall against Estill's alumni. His father, Doug Brewer, said he had mentioned playing in the spring game.

The alumni game is a way for football alumni and boosters to raise money to help high school programs. But last Saturday it was also a way to pay homage and honor to a former Pirate.

The Times would like to thank Selena Robinson, Susan Watson, Hope Branham and Josh Spencer for the photos you see on this page.

Learn the ABC's of controlling your diabetes

There are about 370,000 people diagnosed with diabetes in Kentucky. This number may be larger than we realize if we consider that an additional 137,000 individuals are undiagnosed, making a total of 507,000 living with diabetes in the Commonwealth. Kentucky has the sixth highest rate of diabetes in the nation, making it important for us to take action.

Diabetes is a serious disease. It can lead to complications such as heart disease, high blood pressure, blindness, kidney disease and amputations. If you have diabetes you should know that diabetes is a controllable disease. If you are newly diagnosed or if you have lived with diabetes for a number of years and have not done a good job managing your blood glucose in the past, spring is a great time to take steps to be more successful in this area. If you take steps to control your blood glucose, you are more likely to have higher energy and feel less tired and thirsty. You may also reduce the problems associated with having diabetes.

Here are some steps you can take to Spring into your diabetes management:

Learn all you can about diabetes.

Know your ABCs (A1C, Blood pressure and Cholesterol)

A1C – Your A1C shows how well you have been controlling your blood glucose over the previous three months. The A1C goal for most people is less than 7; however, your doctor decided the A1C goal that is best for you.

Blood Pressure – People with diabetes are more likely to develop high blood pressure or hypertension. It is important to control your blood pressure. You can do this by reducing sodium, taking part in physical activity and maintaining a healthy weight. Use alcohol in moderation and if you smoke, try to get help to quit the habit.

Cholesterol – When you have diabetes, you are more likely to develop heart disease. You can limit foods high cholesterol. Limit the use of solid fats, such as butter, lard or shortening. Instead use canola, safflower, sunflower, soybean and olive oils.

Learn how to live with diabetes. It is easy for diabetics to become overwhelmed by the daily tasks needed to manage their diabetes. Added to this, many have to deal with stress in their lives. Stress can raise blood glucose, so take steps to manage stress by talking to someone, asking for help when you feel down and taking part in activities that lower stress. Living with diabetes means eating well, being active and taking your medicine the way your doctor instructed. You should also keep track of your blood sugar level, check your feet for blisters or cuts and keep gums and teeth healthy.

Get routine care to stay healthy. You should see your health care team at least twice a year. When you visit your doctor remember to have your blood pressure, weight and feet checked.

Words of Wisdom: Famous quotes by America's Pastor, Billy Graham

"Forgiveness does not come easily to us, especially when someone we have trusted betrays our trust. And yet if we do not learn to forgive, we will discover that we can never really rebuild trust."

"We cannot ask forgiveness over and over again for our sins, and then return to our sins, expecting God to forgive us. We must turn from our practice of sin as best we know how, and turn to Christ by faith as our Lord and Savior."

"When God forgives us and purifies us of our sin, He also forgets it. Forgiveness results in God dropping the charges against us."

"Don't ever hesitate to take to [God] whatever is on your heart. He already knows it anyway, but He doesn't want you to bear its pain or celebrate its joy alone."

"I am convinced that when a man sincerely searches for God with all his heart, God will reveal Himself in some way."

"God can use the fear that grips the hearts of men today to point them to eternal truths— the truth of God's eternal judgment, and the truth of His eternal love."

"Life is just a schoolroom with a glorious opportunity to prepare us for eternity."

"I trust Jesus with all my tomorrows, knowing that He will solve the mystery of life beyond the grave."

INSPECTION PERIOD
FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Powell County real property tax roll will be opened for inspection from June 1 through June 15, 2015. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 2015, assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 2015 will be due about November 1, 2015.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8:00AM and 4:00PM. Saturday 9:00am and 12:00PM.

THIRD RE-NOTICE OF MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FOR JUNE 1, 2015

Pursuant to and compliance with the Judgment and Order of Sale of the Powell Circuit Court, The Master Commissioner will offer for Sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder on JUNE 1, 2015, beginning at the hour of 5:00 p.m. local time, at the Powell County Courthouse, Main Lobby, Courthouse Door, Stanton, Kentucky property more particularly described in Exhibit A attached hereto. Said property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of the action, and upon the following terms and conditions:

(A) At the time of sale the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten (10%) percent of the purchase price with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days UNLESS OTHERWISE SHOWN AT THE END OF A PARTICULAR SALE. Or the purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or a greater portion thereof than ten percent (10%) at the date of purchase or of prepaying the balance of the purchase price with accrued interest. In the event the successful bidder desires or elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish an acceptable surety thereon. Said bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid. The bond shall have the force and effect of a judgment in order to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase price and said bond shall constitute a prior and superior lien on the property until paid. No bond or earnest month shall be required in the event that the Plaintiffs hereto shall be the purchasers and the bid is less than their adjudged lien.

(B) The purchasers shall be required to assume and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for the 2014 taxes, the current year and all subsequent years. All taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years shall be paid from the sale proceeds. The property shall further be sold subject to any delinquent State, County and/or city real estate taxes sold pursuant to the provisions of KRS Chapter 134 to any private purchaser during the pendency of this action.

(C) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon, and all existing liens recorded after the recording of the Plaintiff's Lis Pendens Notice, excepting and subject to however, easements, restrictions, stipulations and covenants of record in the Powell County Court Clerk's office, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose and any assessments for public improvements levied against the property.

(D) Purchasers shall not be entitled to the possession of the real estate until the Court's confirmation of the sale and the payment in full of the purchaser price and delivery of the deed unless the Plaintiff's are the purchasers.

(E) Risk of loss of the improvements of the real property shall pass to the purchaser or purchasers at the time of sale. The successful bidders may, (unless otherwise stated at the end of a sale) from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on the improvements on such property to the extent of the court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Powell Circuit Court.

(F) Upon default of the payment of the deposit or posting of bond by the purchaser, the Master Commissioner shall immediately re-sell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein.

Thank you Seniors!

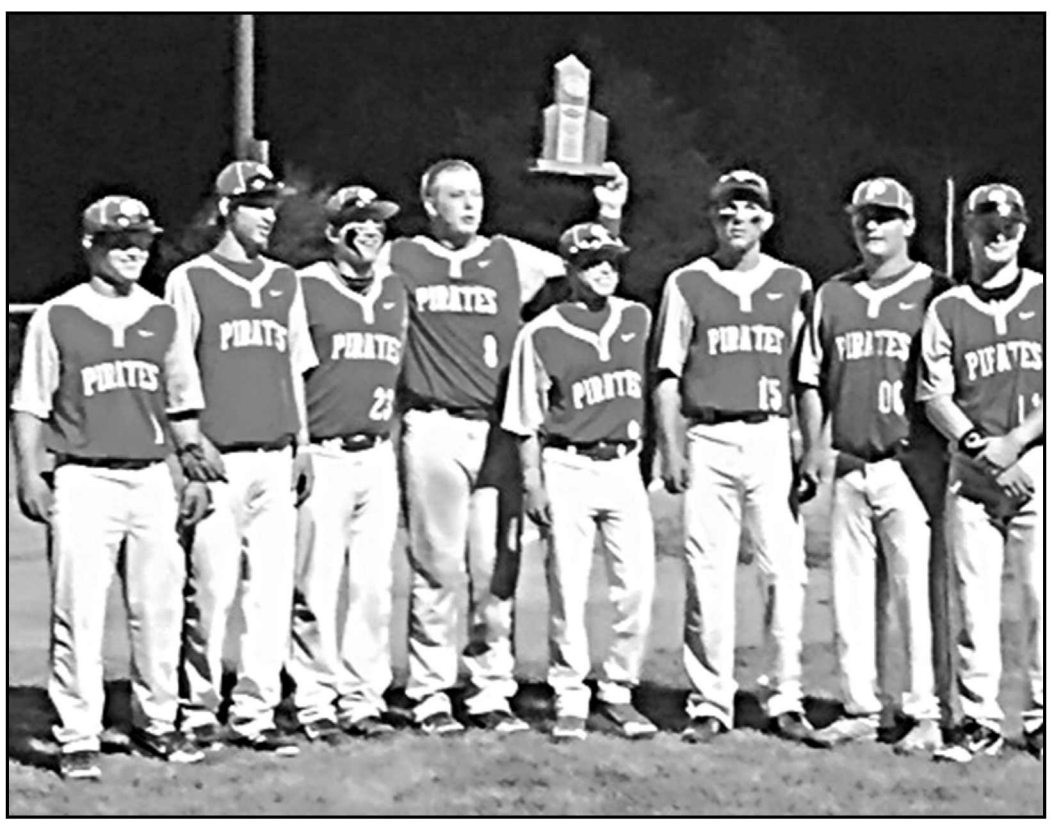

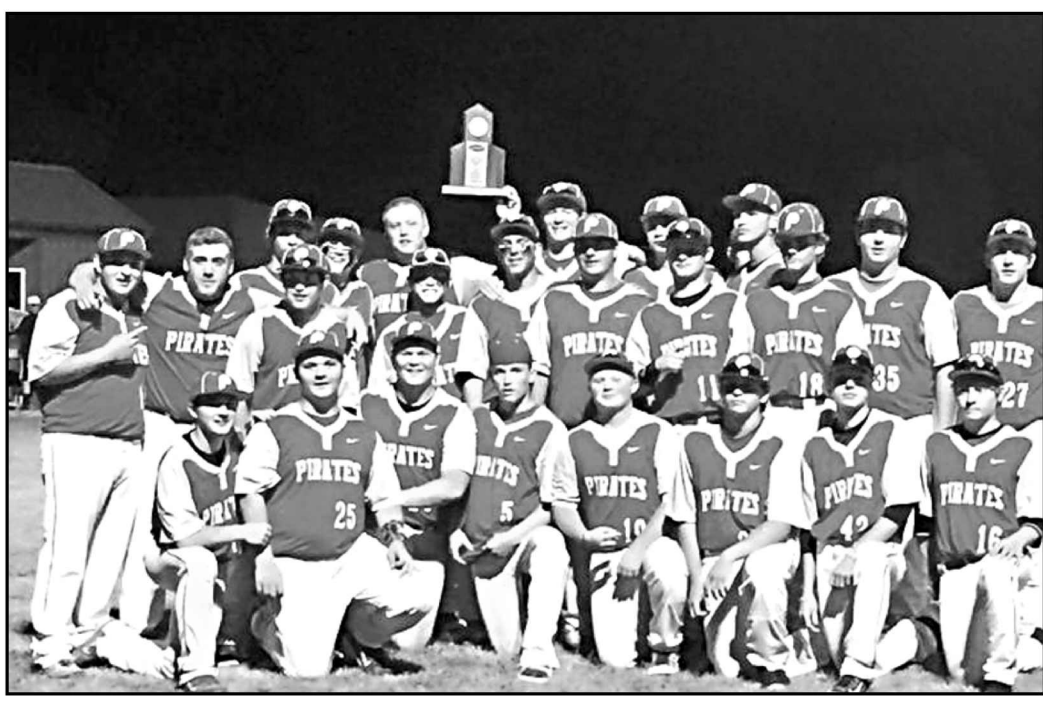

They started in middle school and carried it over to high school. Of the 9 that started, 7 are still playing. Seniors are....Dylan Morton, Chance Snowden, Jordan Woosley, Jacob Hall, Derrick Robinson, Jake Whitt, Brad Smith and we added one this year Mason Hatton. The senior parents want to thank the boys for all the memories. We spent every summer together every weekend and without any vacations, so these boys could play baseball. Thanks!

(P.S. - The community thanks you too!! Congratulations on another District Title!)
